

CARES Act Higher Education Emergency Relief Fund Reporting Disclosure - CRRSAA

Huntington University has received funding through the Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act (CRRSAA) and has awarded $480,131 of those funds to provide emergency financial aid grants to students, as mandated by the Act. The University received access to the funds from the Department of Education on December 27, 2020.

Notification to students of this funding was posted to the official COVID-19 page on the University website and in the student daily digest on February 28, 2021. The notification is located on the website at this link: CRRSAA Emergency Funds.

As of April 29, 2021, all of the funds have been distributed to 280 eligible students who requested assistance through an online form on the University portal webpage. Awards were made to all eligible students using a rubric to measure the need. The average award was $1,715 with individual awards ranging from $100 to $6,000. Awards were made via check or application to the student account as requested by the student.

The CRRSAA funds received by Huntington University for emergency financial aid grants to students have been fully awarded for the intended purpose.
